"The Most Important Day" Accessibility in Online Courses

By Raj Mohan 3:10 PM to 4:00 PM

Detailed Information of the presentation:

I. In this presentation, you will play the roles of students with disability:
    1. Blind student taking an online course
    2. Deaf student taking an online course
II. You will listen to Expert Opinion: Amy Mason, National Federation of the Blind -You will get examples of challenges a blind student faces as she tries to "read" documents posted on an online course. This is a short video (close to 10 minutes) with PowerPoint and audio.
III. You will navigate through my QM certified course:
    - Identify the accessibility features
    - Identify features that are not accessible.
IV. Finally, you will identify one feature that might incorporate from the list of guidelines that I will share during the presentation.

Take-away:

- The need for accessibility
- Practice features of accessibility in online courses.
